COMPETITION REQUIREMENTS

SECTION 1 – Overview

1.1 Background

Effective competition lies at the heart of the federal acquisition system. Obtaining competition when acquiring goods and services increases the Government's buying power, as competition can drive down costs, potentially heighten performance, innovation and overall value, and help curb fraud and waste. In contrast, noncompetitive contracts place the Government in the position of negotiating contracts without the benefit of a direct market mechanism to help establish pricing and deprive the Government of the ability to consider alternative solutions in a reasoned and structured manner.

The President's March 4, 2009, Memorandum on Government Contracting directs agencies to strengthen their use of competition and improve how contracts are structured. The Memorandum requires agencies to strive for a process that is "open and competitive" when awarding government contracts, while maintaining flexibility to tailor contracts to achieve mission and policy objectives.

When an award is made noncompetitively or only one offer is received, the Government's risk of overspending or negotiating less desirable terms and conditions significantly increases. Therefore, to the maximum extent practicable, contracting officers shall promote and provide for full and open competition in awarding contracts.

1.2 Purpose

This Commerce Acquisition Manual (CAM) chapter provides policy and guidance to promote and provide for full and open competition in the acquisition process.

1.3 Applicability

The requirements of this chapter are applicable to all acquisitions within the Department of Commerce (DOC).

1.4 Policy

With certain limited exceptions, it is the policy of the Department of Commerce to promote and provide for full and open competition in soliciting offers and awarding contracts through the use of competitive procedures.

END OF SECTION 2

SECTION 3 – Maximizing the Use of Competition

3.1 Full and Open Competition

Obtaining full and open competition when acquiring goods and services increases the Government's buying power, as competition can drive down costs and potentially heighten performance, innovation and overall value. Therefore, to the maximum extent practicable, contracting officers shall promote and provide for full and open competition in awarding contracts.

Contracting without providing for full and open competition or full and open competition after exclusion of sources is prohibited unless:

- a. Only one responsible source is available and no other supply or service will satisfy the requirement;
- b. The need is of such unusual and compelling urgency that the Government would be seriously injured unless the agency is permitted to limit the number of sources from which it solicits bids or proposals;
- c. Awarding to a specific source or sources is necessary in order to maintain continuity of operations in the case of a national emergency or to achieve industrial mobilization; establish or maintain engineering, research or development capabilities to be provided by an educational or other nonprofit institution or a federally funded research and development center; or acquire expert services or a neutral person for any current or anticipated litigation or dispute;
- d. Precluded by the terms of an international agreement or treaty between the United States and a foreign government or international organization;
- e. Authorized or required by law or statute;
- f. National security would be compromised in disclosing the Government's requirements; or
- g. The agency head determines it is not in the public interest.

3.2 Considerations for Increasing Competition

3.2.1 Requirements Development

Requirements that are vague or unduly restrictive are detrimental to meaningful competition. To promote effective competition, sufficient information should be provided in the statement of work and sufficient time should be provided for response. The contracting officer shall ensure that commercial items are acquired to the maximum extent practicable, statements of work are not unduly restrictive, and specifications are not unnecessarily detailed. In addition, the contracting officer shall take appropriate steps to ensure that the acquisition team works collaboratively and applies their respective skill sets to understand the market for the requirement, including how industry is structured, potential cost drivers, and the extent of potential competition.

3.2.2 Performance Based Acquisition

The contracting officer shall ensure the use of performance-based acquisitions for services to the maximum extent practicable. The use of performance-based acquisitions will encourage meaningful competition by allowing vendors to offer more innovative solutions to meet the Government's performance needs. Performance-based acquisitions will also allow vendors to offer market-tested commercial solutions at competitive pricing with risks that can be reasonably managed under a fixed-price contract.

3.2.3 Outreach and Market Research

Senior Bureau Procurement Officials shall sponsor at least one vendor and/or small business outreach event annually, and cooperate with the Office of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization to participate in small business outreach events. In addition, when planning an acquisition, contracting officers shall conduct market research and outreach activities, as appropriate to the circumstances, such as:

- a. Inviting potential offerors, through a request for information or an industry day that provides a general description of the scope or purpose of the acquisition, to submit information or have discussion on marketplace capabilities;
- b. Taking advantage of the full range of market research tools to understand marketplace capabilities and identify all reasonable potential solutions; or
- c. Engaging potential suppliers, whenever practicable, in an advisory multi-step process, especially for complex needs, such as major systems, that invites potential offerors, through a pre-solicitation notice, to submit information that the agency would evaluate to advise offerors of their potential to be viable competitors (FAR 15.202).

3.2.4 Acquisition Planning

Contracting officers shall ensure that as a part of market research and acquisition planning processes, the acquisition team works collaboratively to consider the comparative benefits of awarding a new contract using full and open competition versus placing an order under an existing contract. The acquisition team should evaluate and document, in the acquisition plan, the strength of each competition strategy in terms of its ability to:

- a. Generate meaningful competition;
- b. Meet needs in a timely manner;
- c. Allow for the negotiation of fair and reasonable pricing and terms and conditions necessary to meet the agency's requirements; and
- d. Meet small business goals.

3.2.5 Strategic Sourcing

Contracting officers shall actively consider the use of strategic sourcing when requirements can be satisfied through a contracting vehicle under an existing Departmental or Federal Strategic Sourcing Initiative. If a contracting vehicle under an existing strategic sourcing initiative is available but not used, the contracting officer shall document, in the acquisition plan, the reason the vehicle was not used.

3.2.6 Task and Delivery Orders

Contracting officers shall ensure that acquisitions achieve meaningful competition in the placement of task and delivery orders by:

- a. Applying greater competitive rigor through the disclosure of significant factors and subfactors and their relative importance when conducting the "fair opportunity process" for orders over $5 million; and
- b. Using data generated by Federal Procurement Data System reports to evaluate new competitions on the extent to which task and delivery order competition is being achieved.

3.2.7 Socioeconomic Programs

Contracting officers should take appropriate steps to facilitate a regular collaboration of contracting and program offices with their Small Business Specialist and the Office of Small and Disadvantaged Business Utilization (OSDBU) in planning acquisitions to identify:

- a. Requirements that can be met by small businesses; and
- b. The small business contracting authority that: is best suited for a given requirement, and will help the Department meet or exceed its small business contracting goals.

In addition, contracting officers should utilize the OSDBU, the Small Business Administration, and the DOC Minority Business Development Agency to assist with market research to help identify qualified and capable small and minority business sources for prime contracting and subcontracting opportunities.

3.3 Documentation for Noncompetitive Actions

The following documentation is required for awards to be made on a noncompetitive basis:

- a. Justification for Noncompetitive Action. A determination or justification and approval fully explaining the rationale for making an award on a noncompetitive basis with supporting documentation is required in accordance with:
  - i. FAR 13.106 when soliciting from a single source for purchases not exceeding the simplified acquisition threshold;
  - ii. FAR 6.303 for other than full and open competition;
  - iii. FAR 8.405-6 for limiting sources for proposed order and blanket purchase agreements established under the Federal Supply Schedules;
  - iv. FAR 13.501 for sole source (including brand name) acquisitions or portions of an acquisition requiring a brand-name conducted under simplified acquisition procedures for certain commercial items; and
  - v. FAR 16.505(b)(2) for exceptions to fair opportunity for proposed orders under indefinite-delivery contracts.
- b. Surveillance Plan. The contracting officer shall work with the acquisition team to develop a surveillance plan that describes how the Government will monitor, control, and mitigate risk of contract performance. The surveillance plan shall provide reasonable assurance that efficient methods and effective cost controls are utilized, and outline the roles and responsibilities of the Government personnel involved in surveillance and demonstrate the skills and capacity of the personnel to perform adequate contract award, management and oversight. The surveillance plan shall be developed during the acquisition planning phase and modified, as needed, upon contract award. Appendix C provides a suggested Surveillance Plan template.

END OF SECTION 3

SECTION 4 – Mitigating Risk of Noncompetitive and Single Offer Contracts

4.1 Contract Limits

Noncompetitive contracts carry risk of overspending because they are negotiated without the benefit of a direct market mechanism. Contracting officers shall limit the period of performance of noncompetitive and single source contracts to the minimum period necessary to meet the requirement. The period of performance for actions awarded using unusual and compelling urgency shall not exceed the minimum period necessary for meeting the unusual and compelling urgency requirements, but no longer than one year or such period as specified by law, unless a longer period for performance is approved by the Senior Procurement Executive, in accordance with FAR 6.302-2. Such approval is in addition to that provided as part of the initial decision to make an award using other than full and open competition.

4.2 Price Reasonableness

In the absence of adequate price competition (noncompetitive and single offer), contracting officers shall obtain the information and data needed, consistent with applicable Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) requirements, to ensure price reasonableness.

4.3 Contractor Performance

Regular assessments and reporting of the contractor's quality, timeliness, cost control, and concern for the customer will improve the ability to motivate quality contracting performance during the life of the contract. For all noncompetitive and single offer contracts that exceed the simplified acquisition threshold, contracting officers shall comply with the performance evaluation requirements as prescribed in Commerce Acquisition Manual 1342.15, Contractor Performance Information.

4.4 Barriers to Competition

For all noncompetitive and single offer contracts that exceed the simplified acquisition threshold, contracting officers shall take the following steps to engage the marketplace to determine how barriers to competition can be removed:

- a. Contact sources that expressed interest in the procurement (e.g., responded to a request for information, participated in an industry day, or contacted the OSDBU) but ultimately did not submit offers to understand the basis for their decision not to participate;
- b. Ask sources if future plans, such as those described in published justifications and approval documents for sole-source contracts, will be effective in encouraging competition and if other alternatives should be considered; and
- c. Document the results of inquiries in the contract file.

4.5 Spend Analysis

Spend analysis may be useful for identifying and analyzing competitions for which only one offer was received. Senior Bureau Procurement Officials should conduct an annual spend analysis for acquisitions in excess of $150,000 to evaluate the strength of their competition practices and identify opportunities for improvement. Data in the Federal Procurement Data System can be used to identify the largest spending categories to analyze and compare levels of competition achieved by different organizations to determine if more successful practices may exist for obtaining greater marketplace competition for a given spending category.

4.6 Migration Strategy

The contracting officer shall develop a strategy to migrate noncompetitive and single offer contracts to more competitive contracting. When re-competing a requirement, if a decision is made that it is premature to transition to a more competitive contracting strategy, the contracting officer shall document and support their rationale not to transition. The documentation shall include market research results identifying barriers to competition and results of spend analysis that does not support competitive practices.

SECTION 5 – Reporting Requirements

Annually, at the end of each fiscal year, each Operating Unit Competition Advocate shall review the competitive practices of their operating unit and prepare a report. The report shall be coordinated through the Senior Bureau Procurement Official and submitted to the DOC Competition Advocate. The report shall address the following:
