

PHOTOVOLTAIC SYSTEMS FOR FEDERAL LANDS

FEBRUARY 24 & 25, 2004 • BEST WESTERN GARDEN INN • SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH

WORKSHOP INFORMATION

Tremendous opportunities exist within the National Park Service, Bureau of Land Management, and US Forest Service for cost-saving, utility infrastructure improvements, and increasing public awareness through the use of solar energy systems. This two-day workshop covers fundamentals of photovoltaic (solar electric) energy applications that have potential value to land management agencies in facilities management and development. The workshop is intended for facilities personnel, and those responsible for planning, development, and maintaining park facilities and utility infrastructure.

Also included – for those interested, a tour of Antelope Island State Park on the morning of February 26th to inspect photovoltaic systems and enjoy the views of the Great Salt Lake.
