NOAA8861 – Aviation Weather Center – WAFS Internet File Service (WIFS)

Introduction: System Description

The World Area Forecast System (WAFS) Internet File Service (WIFS) is provided by the United States National Weather Service (NWS) Aviation Weather Center (AWC) as a highly reliable Internet source of meteorological products. The purpose of WIFS is to provide timely delivery of critical aviation-related weather information to support air traffic management and flight operations in over 80 countries, and regional meteorological telecommunications between the United States and nations in the Caribbean and Central America. This service is available to all authorized customers. The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has an agreement with the United Kingdom Meteorological Office (UK-Met) which also produces similar products on a fee for service basis to the aviation community. Depending on the requester's legal address, the products may be obtained from the FAA via the AWC website at no cost. However, the address of the requester must be collected by the AWC and sent via encrypted file transfer to the FAA for analysis based on the UK-Met/FAA agreements before access can be granted as part of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) agreement. The ICAO recognizes the use of the Internet to access aviation weather data in support of flight planning. The WIFS provides this capability.

Once the FAA approves a user state (country or organization) to access the WIFS system, the AWC will issue a user name and password which will be required to access the data. The ICAO, in Amendment 75 to Annex 3, recognizes the use of the Internet to access aviation weather data in support of flight planning. The WIFS provides this capability and serves an important function backing up the International Satellite Communications System (ISCS).

The WIFS is an integral part of the AWC's Consolidated Aviation Web Services (CAWS) system which has been certified by the FAA as a Qualified Internet Communications Provider (QICP). The CAWS system provides QICP certification and access to the real-time repository for the WIFS application via the HTTPS protocol. The primary open source product for access using the HTTPS protocol is the "GNU Wget package" (GNU is a recursive acronym for "GNU's Not Unix" and is pronounced "guh-NEW"). For the purposes of meeting the ICAO Document 9855 (Guidelines on the Use of the Public Internet for Aeronautical Applications) and the FAA's

Advisory Circular 00-62 for the Qualified Internet Communications Provider (QICP) requirement, there are three geographically remote web farms that house the WIFS data.

The AWC is a Moderate Impact system.

The legal authority for information collection addressed in this PIA is:

15 U.S.C. § 1512 is an Organic Law which confers general powers and duties authority to executive agencies, vesting jurisdiction and control of departments, bureaus, offices and branches.

See also U.S. Department of Commerce and NOAA official Privacy Act system of records listing: COMMERCE/NOAA-11. This listing sets forth the authority for the maintenance of the system as well as for the underlying collection of information.

The data requestor's address is shared with the FAA.
